Overview

Dakota McLean is an Associate in the firm's Real Estate and Lending Transactions Practice Group. Dakota's practice focuses on drafting and reviewing contract documents for complex real estate transactions and commercial leasing, with additional experience handling construction contracts. He assists clients with purchasing and selling commercial real estate, leasing commercial and medical office spaces, developing subdivisions, apartment complexes, and shopping centers, financing development projects, and constructing hospitals, office buildings, and utility facilities. He is experienced in the preparation and analysis of a multitude of contracts, including purchase and sale agreements, ground leases, space leases, development agreements, declarations of restrictive covenants, license agreements, easement agreements, guaranty agreements, confidentiality and nondisclosure agreements, master construction agreements, professional services agreements, and various other related contract documents. Additionally, Dakota is well versed in real property, contracts, business transactions, property and homeowner's associations, and local government laws.
